The Nazi gas vans, responsible for killing more than 300,000 people, mainly Jews, were truly a Berlin creation, yet, "In Berlin ist über die Gaswagen nichts bekannt."

Tiergarten4Association e.V., releases a film of its 3D-reconstruction of a Nazi RSHA Series 2 Gas Van, the so called "Saurer" gas van, and a 3D comparison of the two series of RSHA gas vans. The film also reveals the unknown sites associated with the design, construction, testing, training of the gas van drivers and despatch of the RSHA gas vans in Berlin and the lack of any information or memorial to the victims of the RSHA gas vans in Berlin.

Cameron A. Munro chairman of Tiergarten4Association e.V., "Building the 3D-reconstructions of the RSHA gas vans has allowed us to better understand the technical features and functioning of the Nazi gas vans but also now allows us to bring into the public domain an accurate depiction of the RSHA Series 2 gas van, for which no contemporary photographs have yet been found. The RSHA gas vans were truly a creation of Nazi Berlin, yet, still there is no information on the RSHA gas vans nor any memorial to their victims in Berlin. In Berlin ist über die Gaswagen nichts bekannt."

Uwe Neumärker, Director of the Foundation Memorial to the Murdered Jews of Europe, "The mass murder carried out in gas vans in German-occupied Eastern Europe is virtually unknown. Over the years, Cameron Munro has made groundbreaking and irrefutable contributions to research, discovering photographs for the first time and reconstructing a model. I very much hope that this crucial aspect of the Holocaust will thereby come to the attention of a wider public."

Since the Nuremberg trial in 1945/1946, the Nazis use of gas vans has been shrouded in uncertainty, mystery and distortion, primarily due to a lack of verifiable photographs but also the absence of a book by a reputable historian; the gas vans became a cause célèbre for Holocaust deniers. With the publication of the book, Engineered for Mass Murder – The Nazi Gas Vans: 1939-1945, in 2025, Cameron A. Munro for the first time accurately recorded the history of the origins, design, construction and operation of the Nazi gas vans. The Nazis, using twenty RSHA gas vans, murdered more than 300,000 Jews, Sinti and Roma, mentally and physically disabled, partisans and others, in Nazi occupied Austria, Belarus, Latvia, Poland, Russia, Serbia and Ukraine between December 1941 and the end of the war. The locations of mass killing operations using gas vans included Chełmno nad Nerem/Kulmhof in Nazi occupied Poland, the first Nazi extermination camp.
